Mr. Cleveland's vote in 1892 is only slightly above his vote in 1888, and he lacks nearly a million of having a majority of all the votes cast. Let us have buncombe about a "popular uprising.

Colonel Watterson is heartily in favo of restoring the duty on sugar, and the Kentucky idea in general seems to be that it would be better to put a Tariff on sugar than to increase the tax on whisky. The average Kentuckian, it is well to remember, rarely takes "sugar in his'n."

The place to detain cholera is on the other side of the ocean; not in New York bay," says Governor Flower. Quite right, Governor, but when it gets to New York bay we want a National quarantine that will keep it there and not permit a lot of fool reporters for a nsational newspaper to carry it asho spread it over the whole country.

Governor Pattison of Pennsylvania in his message to the Legislature refers to the Homestead strike and says that the entire country seemed to surrender to the disorderly element. He criticizes the city authorities for the weak action. It cost $438,000 to maintain the militia for the time. He recommends that ons be more heavily taxed, and also that a tax be made on inheritances

It has so long been the custom to stion the sincerity of Mormon pro-sions of willingness to abandon polygamy that there are some misgivings in th ablic mind as to the President's procla ation of pardon to all Mormons wh have abstained from polygamy for two . These misgivings seem to be ature. There are various reasons for regarding the anti-polygamy posi-tion as sincere. But it will do no harm to give it plenty of time to grow into an old tradition before admitting Utah

The Kansas City Journal says roup of Congressmen were having a nat the other day about the way bills chat the other day about the way bills are passed—and remember this is a reform Congress, so far as the House is concerned. One member said that he had not been paying attention when the Indian question came up to a vote, and that few men to a friend in whom he had confidence and asked him what bill it was and if it was all right. On the assurance of the friend he voted for the bill. One of his listeners said: "I was and if it was all right. On the assurance of the friend he voted for the bill. THE spectacle presented in the capitals of the forty-four states of the Union Monday was one whose majesty no Monarchy can equal. Without pomp or Republican parade the Electors, Majesty. Chosen under the forms of the Constitution, met and declared the result of the election of Street, who will take his seat as Chief Magistrate of the United States on March 4th in consequence of the election which was thus formally railfied, is not the choice of a majority of the American people. He was in a minority, so far as the popular vote is concerned, of marry a millin ballots; but he was elected in accordance with the Constitution and the laws, and no American elizien would dream for one moment of resisting his imanguration. No powerful standing army enforces the fundamental law of the land. Its safeguard is the voluntary and obedient respect of all good citizens. In a country where the people are the sovereigns, the transfer of power from one great party to another causes neither disturbance nor excitement. The vetorious party has no need to assert its authority by force. The vanquished admit every right of their, opponents without disjuste, even while they are reforming their ranks for another trial of strength four years home.
